

Advance Diploma in IT Management

Advance Diploma in Software Management is Diploma level Software Engineering course. The course consists of computer science, problem-solving, mathematical foundations of software engineering, programming, software development methodologies, software processes and lifecycles, software quality, testing and technical documentation. Software Engineering is the study of the application of a disciplined, quantifiable and systematic approach for maintenance, operation and development of software. Subjects studied under this degree are object orientated application development, database application development, and developing for the internet, human-digital interaction design and engineering software systems.

Advance Diploma in Software Management Syllabus

Syllabus of Software Management as prescribed by various Universities and Colleges.

Sr. No.	Subjects of Study
1	Foundations of Systems Programming
2	Foundations of Database Programming
3	Foundations of Web Programming
4	SE & Project Management
5	Java Software Development

6	NET Software Development
7	Aptitude Skills, Communications & Personality Development
8	Live Technical Workshop

